Message Classes for Electronic Loan Record Detail Reports

A Title IV WAN message class is a filename that the U.S. Department of Education (Department) uses to distribute data over the Title IV WAN network.

At this time this Guide was sent to print, it was unclear if the Department would be able to provide electronic loan record detail reports for cohort default rates other than fiscal year (FY) 1998. However, if the Department is able to provide electronic loan record detail reports for cohort default rates other than FY 1998, this appendix outlines the message classes that will be associated with those cohort default rates that will be made available.

The message classes for the electronic loan record detail reports consist of 8 digits.

- The first digit identifies whether the data contained in the file is draft or official cohort default rate data (i.e., D or O).
- The second and third digits indicate that the file contains default rates (i.e., DR).
- The fourth digit indicates whether the file is an extract or report (i.e., E or R).
- The fifth and sixth digits identify the fiscal year associated with the cohort default rate data contained in the file (e.g., 98).
- The seventh and eighth digits are always OP.

Note

For information on requesting an electronic loan detail report please refer to the “Electronic Loan Record Detail Report” section beginning on page 67.

The message classes are sorted in numerical and alphabetical order.
